

The exit what.

Complete victory - both internally in our sister group and externally in relation to the teachers and students at the school. As always different so many things.

But the experience that what it was really important we stood together completely as a group and gave all our unique gifts.

The time that they intrinsically began for our exit what worked. They could handle it - the students. And the creation of a space when everything was possible and nothing would create fear. Or to fear or 'risk' couldn't be overcome.

The experience of sisterhood.
